SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

On June 18, 2015, DOE published in the Federal Register a request for information regarding energy conservation standards for room ACs to solicit information from the public to help DOE determine whether amended standards for room ACs would result in a significant amount of additional energy savings and whether those standards would be technologically feasible and economically justified. In addition, DOE identified several issues associated with the currently applicable test procedure for room ACs on which DOE is particularly interested in receiving comment. 80 FR 34843. The notice provided for the written submission of comments by August 3, 2015. The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) has requested a 30 day extension of the comment period to allow additional time for the preparation of their comments. Major interested parties for this rulemaking include major room AC manufacturers, manufacturer association, energy utilities, state agencies, international organizations, and energy and environmental advocacy groups. AHAM represents the major room AC manufacturers. AHAM has requested this extension because the comments for the proposed standards rulemaking for residential dehumidifiers are also due on August 3, 2015 and comments for proposed oven standards rulemaking are due on August 10, 2015, thus making it difficult to give these rulemakings the attention necessary to provide DOE with meaningful and thoroughly considered comments.

DOE has determined that an extension of the public comment period is appropriate based on the foregoing reason. DOE will consider any comments received by midnight of September 2, 2015, and deems any comments received by that time to be timely submitted.

Issued in Washington, DC, on July 17, 2015.
