

TRIBAL LEADER FORUM SERIES

Financing and Investing in Tribal Renewable Energy Projects

May 14th, 2014

SAN DIEGO DOWNTOWN HOTEL

326 Broadway · San Diego, CA 92101 · (619) 232-3121

The eighth in a series of U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Office of Indian Energy-sponsored Tribal Leader Forums, this event is designed to provide tribal leaders, executives, and other project stakeholders with information on tribal renewable energy project. This forum will cover how to finance renewable energy projects, as well as highlight opportunities to invest in renewable energy projects.

Tribes looking to finance renewable energy projects will find information on Federal and State programs, loan programs, and current grant opportunities. Further, cases studies on current Tribal renewable energy projects will be covered. Tribes looking to invest will also find an overview of potential investment opportunities during all phases of tribal energy projects and examples of why other Tribes and Investment Companies are currently investing in renewable energy projects. This forum is geared toward tribal nations interested in looking at the potential of investing in tribal-owned energy projects, as well as Tribes that would like to explore the option of seeking outside investors to finance their energy projects.
