

BIOENERGY IMPACTS

Biofuel research is enabling wise water use

With Bioenergy Technologies Office funding, Argonne National Laboratory researchers developed the Water Assessment for Transportation Energy Resources (WATER) online tool to provide data that helps bioenergy developers estimate the impact of biofuel production on water quality and quantity, and determine which biofuel crops are best suited to different geographic locations.

To learn more, visit bioenergy.energy.gov.