

BIOENERGY IMPACTS

Sports car racing is using biofuels to drive renewable fuel development

Green Racing, a partnership between the Energy Department, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Society of Automotive Engineers, encourages the use of innovative, energy efficient technologies and renewable, low-carbon fuels (such as E85 fuel with up to 85% ethanol). This initiative moves motorsports closer to sustainability and ushers in the next generation of road-relevant technologies and renewable fuels.

To learn more, visit bioenergy.energy.gov.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF
ENERGY | Energy Efficiency &
Renewable Energy
BIOENERGY TECHNOLOGIES OFFICE

Photo courtesy of Royal Broil.