Conference - Power Plays: Geothermal Energy in Oil and Gas Fields Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19-20, 2015

Leaders from the geothermal, oil and gas communities, along with experts in finance, law, technology, and government agencies, will discuss generating electricity from oil and gas well fluids, using the flare gas for waste heat applications, and desalinization of the water. Other relevant topics include seismicity, thermal maturation, and improved drilling operations.

Workshop - A Primer on Geothermal Energy Resources

Monday, May 18, 2015, 1-5 pm

The half-day pre-conference workshop provides a focused introduction for those new to the geothermal and energy communities. Four Continuing Education Credits provided. Limited to first 50 registrants.

Director, Dr. David Blackwell, 214.768.2745
Coordinator, Maria Richards, 214.768.1975
Proj. Specialist, Cathy Chickering Pace, 214.768.1510

HOT TOPICS

- Desalination of Produced Water
- Induced Seismicity
- Play Fairway Analysis
- Waste-Heat Technology
- Onshore and Offshore Thermal Maturation (ENAM CSE)
- Power Generation from Flare Gas
- Case Study: Geothermal Energy from Oil and Gas Fields in China
- Enhanced Deep Earth Permeability
- Sustainability of Heat Extraction from Decommissioned Petroleum Wells
- Low Temperature Mineral Recovery
- Legal Considerations for Oil & Gas Operators
- Emerging Technology Updates
